Themed Weddings: Styles and Schemes for the Big Day

The ambience will serve to enhance your wedding day to make it an event that is uniquely perfect. Since wedding is considered by the majority as the biggest occasion in human existence, people strive to create special memories of it.

The various wedding themes have become the most popular way to celebrate the union of couples. For the past years, couples have turned to these different styles in order to experience the magic that comes along with each theme. There are several ways to plan out a wedding, and a lot of schemes to carry them out. Here are the most common ones.

Prince and Princess Wedding (Cinderella Theme)

All of us know one fairy tale story while growing up. And what better way to associate ourselves with the handsome prince or the pretty princess than during our wedding day? This fantasy theme is one of the most well-known wedding themes of all time. After all, how often can one pretend to be Cinderella?

Most brides who are planning the princess wedding would want the whole fairytale effect. This means, huge ball gown, full skirt and all. The hair for most “Cinderella brides” are worn up and accented with a tiara. Some even go to the extent of wearing glass-slipper-replicas which are created from clear plastic. Bridesmaids will do well by wearing gowns with full skirts as well. Flowergirls are usually dressed in gowns which are smaller versions of the bride’s. The groom completes the look by donning a tuxedo.

The wedding accessories are important to create a fairytale atmosphere. The cake may enhance the style of the wedding by including a cake topper in castle, carriage, or any fantasy design.

The wedding decorations also play a huge part in setting the right mood. You can incorporate pumpkins in your centerpieces. Make use of a lot of whites for decorations, such as white tulle, and add some twinkle lights to double the effect.

Some of the most popular wedding color choices for this particular theme are white, ivory, ice blue, or pale pink. Roses, orchids, and gardenias are often used as the wedding flowers. And finally, to create that magical effect, choose classical music that has requires waltzing. Who says fairytales don't come true?

Beach Wedding

You don't actually have to be anywhere near the beach in order to have a beach-themed wedding. Sometimes referred to as Seaside, Dolphins, Sand and Sea, Hawaiian, or Sand and Sun wedding, the beach setting is fast-becoming everyone's top wedding style choice.

The bride isn't really expected to don a mermaid costume, but if it helps to enhance the occasion, why not? Crystal or pearl tiaras will accentuate the hair or you can choose to have strings of pearl woven through the hair. The bridesmaids' gowns may have the mermaid style as well, and would look every bit into the style with silver or blue embroidery on them.

It is easy to give wedding essentials the beach-theme identity. Your cake, decorations, and favors may make use of sand or shells to give them the appropriate look. You centerpieces for example may make use of fish bowl, complete with sand shells and fish, and accentuated with floating candles. You can even decorate otherwise boring pillar candles with shells.

Most beach-themed weddings choose blues, creams, silver, greens, yellow, or apricots as the wedding colors. Generally, the cream and yellow roses, or any flowers in blue are frequently used. Silver serves as accent.

Butterfly Wedding

The use of butterflies and butterfly designs in weddings is another famous trend in weddings. While this is particularly chosen during the spring and summer season, the butterfly theme may still be chosen any time of the year.

The bride's and/or the bridesmaids' gowns may have butterflies embroidered on them. But for this type of theme, accessorizing is enough to create the appropriate ambiance. Jewelries, hairpins, and headpiece with butterflies, will each help you live up to the wedding style.

Wedding details like the cake, centerpieces, flowers, and favors, may simply utilize butterfly picks to highlight the nature of the theme. Since this is a very common theme, most wedding supply stores will have plenty of butterfly-theme items in store for you.

Celestial Wedding

What could be more romantic than having the moon and stars come down from the sky on your big day? The celestial theme is one of the most romantic wedding schemes of all time.

The bride's gown may have beads or Swarovski crystals to give it a "gleaming" effect. Star design accessories such as jewelries and hair clips will look nice on the bride and her bridesmaids.

Choose a cake that has a moon or star shape instead of those usual round forms. Or if you insist on a round tier cake, accentuate it with cake toppers that speak a lot about the theme. You can also highlight the wedding style by twinkle lights in white tulle.

Most galaxy-inspired weddings choose silver, navy or midnight blue as wedding colors. There are a lot of ideas for favors available in wedding supply stores. You may opt to give out star-shaped cookie cutters, gel candles with star embeds, or star-shaped candy dishes or magnets.

You may use any kind of flower but white ones will enhance the effect. Add some small moon and star picks on your bouquet. Best location for such theme would be outdoors (evening preferably) or inside a planetarium.

Mardi Gras Wedding

Because weddings are supposed to be fun and festive, celebrating it mardi gras style is perfect.

Even if there are certain traditional issues surrounding weddings, there is really no real limits as to how you can go about customizing them. With the mardi gras theme wedding, people are allowed to express their creativity. Bride and groom may opt to carry scepters, while their guests wear masks.

The wedding cake can be a good expression of art, sprayed with colorful hues and sprinkled with creative accessories. Small treasure chests containing chocolate coins in foil will make cute centerpieces. Great favor ideas include mini decorated masks, beads, or other festive accessories.

To create a more jovial atmosphere, you may hire a jazz band to provide entertainment. Also, add some spicy foods on the menu. If you want to make sure your guests will dress up for the occasion, have some masks ready for those who show up without their own.

Candlelight Wedding

For that ultimate romantic wedding celebration, choose the Candlelight Theme. The soft glow from candles enhances the importance of the occasion.

It's pretty hard to incorporate candles into the attire, so make sure you maximize instead on the decorations and other details. Your bridesmaids may also carry candles rather than the traditional bouquets.

Since candles have become a staple in accessorizing or accentuating, it wouldn't be too difficult to figure out how to make them highlight the affair. Pillar candles in different sizes will make nice centerpieces. Or you may put floating candles in small fish bowl with water and add in some flowers. The cake may be highlighted by putting in some battery operated candles as topper.

Candles would definitely be the most appropriate wedding favor for this theme. Creating fancy candle giveaways are easy. You may simply wrap votive candles in tulle and accessorize these with flowers or ribbons. Terra cotta flowerpots containing a small candle is also a nice alternative. You may customize the pots and attach cards with short notes as well.

The Hype for Theme-Inspired Weddings

Nowadays, weddings are planned according to a specific theme. Whether the couple wants it formal, traditional, or totally unorthodox, preparing the wedding entails planning its every phase. Even if it's quite a hassle to have to live up to certain specifics, there are a lot of resources to help us accomplish the right schemes and style needed for the big day.

Choosing a Wedding Theme

The choice of wedding theme will influence the mood or atmosphere on your wedding day. Thus, selecting a particular theme is one of the most crucial decisions you will ever have to make.

Tip 1: Daydream

One essential tip in choosing the perfect style of wedding is to daydream about it. We may not admit it, but most weddings are realizations of how we would want the occasion to be. So dream all you want and let your fantasies come to life.

Tip 2: Write Them Down

Since choosing the wedding theme is a huge decision to make, the couple should share ideas and personal interests. Write each of your choices on paper, from wedding colors, to location, and down to the very minute details. Check common interests and take it from there. You can get hints for the right theme from your color choices. For example, if you both like blue then you can opt to have a beach-inspired wedding.

Tip 3: Check Availability

Make sure that you choose a theme that won't give you a hard time. Popular themes are not a problem since most supply stores carry several items which will help you in the preparation. But if you want a rather unconventional theme, check if you will be able to find resources for the things that you will need before you really decide on it. Because chances are, you will have one theme too many during your big day.

The Perfect Theme

All themes are perfect as long as you both wanted and are comfortable with it. Since it involves a lot of thought, research, and probably debate, the theme that you come up with should really be how you want your special day to turn out.

Before you finalize your decision, ensure that your partner is agreeable to it. Make sure that you stick with it and that you chose it not because it is the most “sough-after” in society right now.

Having the perfect theme wedding can still come true even if you are tied to a budget. Especially if you have plenty of time to prepare for it, you will be able to achieve your dream wedding.

The right theme should be a reflection of both your personalities. Like, why would you choose a beach-themed wedding if you both hate the sea? And why would nature theme be your choice if you're not the outdoorsy types? People should be reminded of who both of you are even for years to come. They will probably forget every detail of the wedding but they will certainly remember the atmosphere on that one special day.
